About Me

Hello, I am Ines, and I reside in the bustling city of Miami. In my cozy household, there are no other children, but there is an abundance of love and warmth waiting to be shared with a little one. I am empathetic, thoughtful, optimistic, loyal, generous, and resourceful, qualities that I believe will make me a loving and devoted mother.

Although I enjoy sports, watching TV and movies, cooking, spending time with family and friends, and traveling in my free time, my ultimate dream has always been to experience the joys of motherhood. Marriage came later in life for me, at the age of 35, and my husband and I faced the heart-wrenching challenge of infertility. Despite our efforts, the path to parenthood seemed elusive.

After our divorce, my desire to nurture a child never wavered. I made the heartfelt decision to pursue adoption as a way to fulfill my longing to be a mother and to offer a child a life filled with love, opportunities, and happiness.
